LET'S TALK ABOUT FOOTBALL!

The old game seems to drop deeper into the depths of neglect with each succeeding year. But it is still not dead entirely. A few teams are again operating this fall in Eastern Canada. Up in the Niagara district, a six-team league is operating with apparently enthusiastic following, and Lou Hayman is handling one of the clubs. To anyone even vaguely familiar with the Big Four of the past several years this suggests that there will be at least one good rugby team in eastern Canada this autumn.

The only fault with that prediction is that it comes just a little late. Lou has taken over the reins of the new R.C.A.F. Hurricanes, and at the moment his Airmen are sky-high in their league by virtue of their crushing 20 to 0 treatment, administered to their closest rivals in Hamilton on Saturday, followed by another win on Thanksgiving Monday over the Toronto Oakwood Indians. The Flyers are still undefeated. Incidentally, that Hamilton game drew over ten thousand fans.

That famous old Rough Rider team is still nominally alive too, up in the Capital city. There we find that a three-team city league is attempting to satiate the old football hunger, where last year the Dominion finalists were the pride and joy of Bytown (Ottawa). The big red team has lost perhaps sixty percent of its once formidable array of gridiron preponderance, and is doubtless but a shadow of its former self. Gone are Herman, Wadsworth, the Spragues, Syms, Burke, Perley, McCarthy, Tommy, Tremblay, Sward, etc. But this has given some of the younger bloods a chance to step up, and there are plenty to choose from the senior high school league and junior city.

The other two teams are an aggregation from Uplands Airport (of James Cagney fame), and another representing the Civil Service. Ralph St. Germain will handle the latter, while old Dave Sprague is the Flyers' mentor. The Riders are operating this season under the guidance of their erstwhile captain and great lineman, George Fraser.

On Saturday we sat in on the opening game of the season, and saw the Riders capitalize on their greater scoring punch to humble the airmen by an 18 to 0 count. The three touchdowns went to Haigh, Powell and Quinn, proving our point about up-and-coming new blood. Haigh was a new Rider last year. Powell was in the Junior City League, and Quinn was with the crack St. Pats high school squad. The game produced a few flashes of good football, but not too often. The Flyers showed a strong line built around George Sprague, formerly of Riders, and Doug Turner, formerly of Hamilton, but their backfield handled the ball much too loosely.

Powell is a rugged kid who keeps moving with the ball until he is flat on the ground. That is to say, he seems to drive forward for another five yards after he has been upset by a tackle. And it takes a hefty tackle to upset him at that. Young Brian Quinn appeared in Molson Stadium last year with the all-star Ottawa team that defeated Montreal's pick of the (Continued on Page Four)

1,200 Students Answer Government's Appeal; West Reached Monday

McGill Men Given Cheer On Reaching Winnipeg

Throughout the Eastern Provinces the Government's appeal to the Universities for harvesters seems to have met with enthusiastic response: 1,200 students have gone to the rescue of this year's bumper crop. Information was received here over the weekend, to the effect that all harvesters passed through Winnipeg on Saturday morning, and there split up to go to the various districts they were to help out.

Thirty-five men from Queens went to Regina and Saskatoon via Melville and the Canadian National route, one hundred McMaster students left for Regina via the Canadian Pacific line, and on Sunday morning a Canadian Pacific Railway 15 car special train left Winnipeg for Regina with three hundred McGill and two hundred McDonald students on board. On Monday morning another Canadian Pacific train carried eighty students from Toronto and Loyola College to Regina. Then followed a sixteen-car Canadian National Railway special train, carrying 125 students from Toronto, 110 from Laval University, 190 from Queens, 80 from the University of Western Ontario, 75 from Sir George Williams College, 103 from the Ontario Agricultural College, 10 from Kemptville Agricultural College, and a few others. This train had two dining cars.

Professors in Charge
Each University has sent a Professor or senior student to take charge over the men during their absence from their respective colleges. Professor Culliton left with the McGill men, two members of the teaching staff accompanied those from the Ontario Agricultural College, while senior students are in charge of the Toronto group.

According to information received, wherever men have left for the West, they have been promised additional courses on their return to help them catch up on the work which they may have missed, and it is reported, that the Department of National Defence will authorize leave of absence from military training for them.

On leaving, the harvesters were seen to be wearing old but warm clothes, as they had been told, that though in some districts the Indian Summer was at its height, there was already three inches of snow in others, and that, when starting work at four o'clock in the morning, they would be glad to have brought along that extra sweater.

While the date for the return of the McGill men was set at approximately October 2, Toronto and Queen's do not expect their men to return until October 9 and 15 respectively.

As far as the financial arrangements are concerned, it is learnt, that the wages of $4.00 per day for the inexperienced harvester, and any greater sum that the skilled worker will receive will be paid to the men by the farmer who is employing them, while transportation and other costs will be borne by the Provincial and Federal Governments.

St. John's Ambulance

Prof. McCurdy's Death Mourned

Former Professor Succumbs After Brief Illness

McGill University, and particularly the Faculty of Engineering, suffered a great loss by the death of Professor Lyall Radcliff McCurdy, who died in the Western hospital on October 9th after suffering a brief illness.

Professor McCurdy was born in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, on July 6, 1897, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stanley McCurdy. J. D. McCurdy, one of the pioneers of Canadian aviation was his cousin.

Dalhousie University in Halifax and McGill University were the scenes of his later education. He graduated from the latter university (Continued on Page Four)

Next Monday Deadline For "Forge" Contributions

The deadline for literary contributions to "The Forge" is November 18th. If anyone has an idea which has literary possibilities he is asked to submit these to "The Forge" as soon as possible.

Both poetry and prose are very welcome. The management hopes that some hidden talent will come to light, especially among some of our freshmen.

Instead of the usual one edition per annum, the editors are this year planning three editions. Due to wartime conditions, "The Forge" will this year be published, mimeographed on inexpensive paper, so the price of the magazine will be lower than formerly.

McGill Students Travel Across Dominion to Save Wheat Crop

By R.M.M.

On the "McGill Harvesting," sleep, the cargo has lost none of its enthusiasm for the finer points of transcontinental travel. At Sudbury, the first stop this morning, the student farmers poured out of the train in gala garb; crowding the platform and the restaurant, and even venturing several blocks down street to Murray's. The train pulled out of the mining town about 10 a.m., leaving a wave of McGill cheers in its wake.

Throughout the day, whenever the train has stopped on a siding or at a railway junction, several hundred boys have disembarked to explore the surrounding countryside, or to carry on an all-important crap game on the railway tracks. One very popular pastime is that of chalking appropriate statements on the sides of the train, such as: "No Wheat, No Eat!!!", "We're from the East and Plenty Tough!", or perhaps just large block letters broadcasting the name of McGill.

Considerable interest was taken in the fact that a number of Queen's boys on the train had brazenly scribbled the name of the tricolor on several cars. These inscriptions were quickly removed at the next station, and the gully parties dealt with accordingly.

When the train resumes its course after a short stop, there are always at least twenty individuals who prefer to run along the bushes and rocks, pacing the train, and then (Continued on Page Four)

Frosh Turn Out For Conversat

New Students Presented With Varied Program

The S.C.M. held its Conversat, informal get together, last Friday evening in the McGill Union. Although many of the freshmen had gone west, there was a very good turnout for the evening.

The freshmen were put at ease from the start when they were told that they could conventionalize the appearance of their legs. The programme started with a sing song, and continued with several novel party games, ranging all the way from composing songs to a relay race using toothpicks and a life-saver.

After this, there was a period of dancing followed by a humorous skit showing the tribulations of a prospective freshman at college. The evening was rounded out by a further session of dancing.

The music for the evening was provided by Gerald MacDonald and his orchestra, who turned in a fine performance despite the fact that four of the seven men in the band had gone to Saskatchewan and were unable to attend.

Dr. F. Staton Announced as New Director

The McGill Choral Society is already making plans for the coming season. Dr. Fredericke Staton will be the new director this year.

Dr. Staton is an Examiner of the Royal Schools of Music of London, and will replace the former director, Mr. Anthony Chapman, who has been with the society since its inception two years ago. Under this new leadership the executive look forward to a very successful year. They issue an urgent appeal at this time for new members, especially men. Owing to the sudden migration of the larger part of the Daily staff in search of greener pastures in the far distant wheatfields of the far west the Daily is, for the next few weeks, seriously understaffed, and a new group of reporters is urgently needed NOW.

Military Training to Begin Today, All Students Enrolling First in B Wing of COTC

Exhibit Opens November 30

Students to Enter Arts and Crafts By Nov. 25

McGill's third annual Arts and Crafts Exhibition will be held this year from Nov. 30 to Dec. 12. The display will be shown in the Exhibition Gallery of Redpath Library.

Sometime during the latter part of this week folders will be distributed to the various buildings on the campus. These folders will contain full information for those who are interested in seeing how to get their work displayed.

The deadline for receiving material will be no later than Nov. 25. This is an urgent request to the students of both McGill and Macdonald College. Please note that articles to be submitted must not have been on display at any previous Arts and Crafts Exhibition. As in the past two years, the response of the students this year, will determine greatly any future attempt at an exhibition of this type.

Last year's Arts and Crafts Exhibition was held in the Union Ballroom. The collection of entries was varied and original. Among the exhibits there were Norwegian sweaters and mittens, photographs, paintings, etchings and things of a similar nature.

This year notice is being given far enough ahead in advance in order that people who are working on anything now will be sure to be finished by November 25 and not meet with any disappointment. Watch your "Daily" for further announcements.

Cosmopolitans Convene Friday

Club To Hold Initial Meeting In Union Grill

The Cosmopolitan Club has announced that it is planning to hold its first meeting this session on Friday, October 16th in the Union Grill Room. A member of the Club's Executive Committee stated that the meeting would be informal, including such items as folk-dancing and various games. The freshman-freshette quiz originally scheduled for this meeting has been postponed until the freshman farmers return to the campus.

In addition to social and recreational activities such as this first meeting, it is planning a number of study groups and other activities of a more serious nature, including a series of luncheon discussions, scheduled to start in the near future.

By means of the preceding program the club hopes to achieve its stated objective, namely: "To bring students from different countries together and thus promote a better understanding between them, and at the same time to give Canadian students an opportunity to meet their foreign guests."

Thursday to be Deadline For Changing Courses

Thursday, the 15th of October has been set as the deadline for changing courses. Students are warned that failure to comply with this request may result in serious conflict at examination time.

It was announced that it is not enough merely to go into another class and report to the instructor there. All students in Arts and Commerce are asked to notify the Dean or his Assistant in the Arts Building, and Science students must have their changes of courses approved by Professor Barnes in the Chemistry Building.

Uniforms Will Be Issued To Students at First Parade

The new military regulations of the University go into effect to-day. All men students are to register first with the B Wing of the C.O.T.C., and will later be transferred to the A Wing or U.A.T.C. The conditions for transfer will be found listed below. All cadets must bring their military training registration cards to the first parade, when uniforms will be issued by platoons. All those already in possession of uniforms must wear them. The official University regulations follow:

IVCF Fireside Held Saturday

Luncheon Is Scheduled for Thursday Noon

Speaking to the McGill Christian Fellowship on Saturday night, Lawrence Yates outlined briefly his conceptions of the "Character and Claim of Christ." The occasion was the first in the fall series of Fireside discussions on the theme "Christianity is Christ."

Discussing first the character of Christ, he described it as absolutely perfect, unblemished by sin of any kind. Not only did His friends pay tribute to this sinlessness, but His enemies "could find no fault in Him."

The speaker referred to the claim of Christ as "stupendous." First He claimed to be the Messiah, the hope of a nation, fulfilling the prophecies. Secondly He claimed to be the Master of men, and said He would judge all men. Thirdly He claimed to be the Saviour of men. "He came to give His life for the sheep." Finally Christ claimed an equal status with God.

The speaker then went on to show that the sinless life and spotless character substantiated these astounding claims. The meeting was then thrown open to general discussion.

The I.U.C.F. will meet again at a luncheon on Thursday at 1:00 p.m. Any who wish to attend should see a member of the executive or telephone HA. 9462 before (Continued on Page Four)

New Offensives Planned

President Roosevelt announced last night that the High Command of the United Nations has agreed on "the necessity of diverting enemy forces from Russia and China to other theatres of war by new offensives against Germany and Japan." The President declared his belief that the United States draft law should be amended to drop the minimum induction age from 20 to 18.

Thanksgiving

It may sound somewhat ironic to celebrate a day which we term "Thanksgiving" in the midst of toil, sweat, bloodshed and tears. We at the university, living in our world of luxury, experiencing few miseries except perhaps the occasional heart-break which is rapidly mended, seldom pause and reflect how thankful and grateful we should be. When Johnny can't have a new car he becomes fretful and feels as though he were bearing the world's troubles on his shoulders, forgetting entirely that the pauper and his family were on their knees yesterday thanking God for the blessings he had bestowed on them.

This year for the first time in the history of the university, Thanksgiving, which was traditionally celebrated after the gathering of the harvest, has a greater sense of reality, with a number of McGill men "Bringing in the sheaves." They will have the great good fortune of experiencing that sense of deep satisfaction and peace that all farmers feel after they have successfully reaped an abundant crop. (En passant we may note that our embryo farmers will also feel very rested after their arduous task.)

Thanksgiving then has been brought home to McGill, and in the many homes where the absence of a son was noted, parents may have the satisfaction of knowing that their son is helping to reap the grain, that feeds the nations, and may even be thankful that they live in a land where their son has the privilege of helping in the struggle for existence.

Loss of Staff

The Daily lost a number of its editorial and reportorial staff with the harvesters.

There was some question at first of suspending the Daily for several weeks until the staff returned but this was thought unfair to the remaining three thousand students. Instead arrangements have been made to send Dailies to the students out west.

In the meantime, however, the Daily is laboring under a distinct handicap. To remedy this situation all campus clubs and organizations are requested to send in all news of meetings, elections, etc., etc., in order to facilitate the publication of such items.

Where it is possible, executives are requested to appoint a publicity manager, whose job it will be to hand in, and again wherever possible, to write the story concerning the club.

It is hoped that all clubs and societies concerned will co-operate in this respect for the mutual benefit of the club and Daily.

It is not generally realized how much actual time and work is involved in gathering the information, writing the story, proof reading it and sending it to the printers. With this in mind the Daily hopes it will receive greater co-operation in the coming three weeks.

Not having seen the original stage presentation of "Panama Hattie," it is impossible for us to judge as to how the movie version compares with the original. However, the current Capitol Theatre attraction, does quite well for itself as a musical comedy film in its own right. The inimitable "Red" Skelton tops the roster of comedians, Ann Sothern is the female lead, and Cole Porter supplies the musical score. It is no wonder then that a top notch musical is the result.

A thread of a story has been added to the whole shebang, but there is not enough of it to cause too much disturbance to the mental apparatus. The film winds its merry way, with the principals cavorting round. Bright Cole Porter tunes enter in every so often and everybody seems to be having a great time.

The comedy trio of Rags Ragland, Ben Blue and "Red" Skelton as the three sailors contribute some good comedy which is highly original. These three have a technique all of their own.

Ann Sothern as Hattie turns in a neat bit of work. The characterization is not unlike the 'Maise' which she has been doing so successfully. Besides everything else, Miss Sothern certainly has the technique down pat as far as putting over a song to the audience is concerned. Her, Let's Be Buddies, one of the Cole Porter songs of the original score is one of the high points of the film.

Alan Mowbray is an excellent English butler as is Marsha Hunt as the "other girl." Then there are bright and cheerful vaudeville acts in the film which add to the gaiety of the whole affair.

"Holiday Inn," now in its third week at Loew's, is one of the most charming carefree musical that has appeared in a long time. It is a movie to make you forget the war and the boy friend gone to Saskatchewan and the English reading you ought to be doing. Even if you don't care for musicals, you will enjoy the light humor and the original song and dance numbers.

"Holiday Inn" is the story of a New York singer, Bing Crosby, whose partner and girl is taken from him by his suave friend, Fred Astaire. Bing decides that he is fed up with city life, and opens up a farm in the country. But getting up at dawn and milking cows in zero weather does not turn out to be as much fun as he thought it would. His next idea is to open up an inn. This inn is to be open only on the fifteen American holidays, and on each holiday an appropriate show will be given. Crosby, more by accident than intention, gets a good girl entertainer, and together they make a success of the inn. Back in New York, the girl Astaire stole from Bing, decides to walk out on Fred in favour of a millionaire. Astaire comes down to the inn and there he meets and goes to work on Bing's newest girlfriend. From there on a series of amusing complications occur that finally work out happily and musically for everyone.

While the plot is by no means startlingly original, it is better than those usually found in musicals, and it does serve to connect the fifteen holidays and different settings together very satisfactorily.

Bing slides into his part with great naturalness even to the extent of wearing gaudy ties and looking woeful. His singing of the frequent Irving Berlin songs is the joy of all Crosby lovers. Fred Astaire as the contrasting man-about-town, is less likeable and less at ease in his part, but his dancing more than makes up for this. The two girls, Marjorie Reynolds and Virginia Dale, both newcomers, were probably chosen for their excellent dancing ability and their reasonably good voices. They are neither original nor outstanding in looks or dramatic ability, but they are nevertheless likeable and provide adequate feminine interest.

Outstanding among the supporting players is Walter Abel who plays the part of the harassed manager with gusto and full appreciation of the role's comedy possibilities.

The song and dance numbers for each of the happy holidays were enjoyable. Effective costuming and two little negro children belonging to Crosby's coloured housekeeper, will keep those who don't find popular music and dancing engrossing, from becoming bored. While those who do like popular music, and dancing and Mr. Crosby will be in their element and a very happy one at that.

If making you forget your troubles is "keeping up morale," "Holiday Inn" is good propaganda.—M. E.

Les Concerts Symphoniques
First signs of an awakening 1942-43 season is the announcement from Les Concerts Symphoniques of their ten-concert series opening next Tuesday evening. The unqualifiedly resourceful M. Belque, having decided to give the subscribers some notion of what they will get for their money, has issued a complete list of the works to be played, along with the roster of soloists.

This year three pianists are scheduled: Rudolf Serkin on November 17th, playing Rachmaninoff's Concerto No. 2, and a Bach D minor concerto, young Andre Mathieu in Beethoven's First, and Alexander Brailowsky in the Liszt E flat, and Chopin's E minor Concerto on March 23rd. In February Gregor Piatigorsky is to appear in Schumann's A minor 'cello concerto, and Elman will play Mendelssohn and Bach at the first concert.

M. Defauw's projected programs contain a number of items of considerable interest, and a few really exciting prospects—Faure's marvelous "Pelleas et Melisande" for example, and a performance of Berlioz' "Symphonie Fantastique" (presumably complete). He has also scheduled "La Tragedie de Salome" of Florent Schmitt, and a work of Aaron Copland's, called "Quiet City." And for those who can take their Brahms in large doses, there is to be a Brahms Cycle, with performances of the symphonies.

It all adds up to a most attractive season. Subscriptions are $12.50, $15.00, $17.50, and $20.00. The whole list appears below.

The Bathroom

Broad is the gate, and wide the path,
That leads man to his daily bath,
But ere you spend a shining hour
With sponge and sluice, and soap and shower,
Remember well where'er you be
To shut the door and turn the key.

I had a friend, my friend no more,
Who failed to lock the bathroom door,
A maiden aunt of his one day
Came in, as half submerged he lay.
She did not notice nephew John,
And turned the boiling water on.

He had no time nor even scope,
To camouflage himself with soap,
But gave a yell, and flung aside
The sponge, 'neath which he sought to hide.
It fell to earth, I know not where,
History stops relating there.

Then John came leaping from the foam,
He yelled again, and made for home.
His aunt fell fainting to the ground,
Alas, she never brought her round,
She died, intestate, in her prime,
A victim of another's crime.

And John can never quite forget,
How by a breach of etiquette
He lost at one fell swoop and plunge,
His aunt, his honour, and his sponge.

Said a miss in our eight o'clock class,
Because if there's one thing I'm good at,
It's intercepting a pass!"

Rugger Squad Meets Defeat

Ferry Command Stops McGill By 8 to 6

The McGill Rugger squad were entertained on Saturday by the R.A.F. fifteen from the Ferry Command, with the flyers coming out on the long end of an 8 to 6 count. Westmount Park was the scene of the engagement.

The Redmen found themselves in hot water throughout the first half, and the score stood at 8 to 0 at the intermission. Flax and Owen registered a try apiece, and Craig managed to get over one convert in his two attempts, to amass the eight points.

The second half, however, found a determined McGill team out to even matters, and to begin, Tyhurst lifted over a good penalty kick to ring up three markers. Then, on a fine run, McGlore went over for a try, but Tyhurst failed in his conversion attempt, and the Redmen went down to defeat after making a real contest of it all the way.

The game was witnessed by Air Chief Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill, Flax, Craig, Bancroft, and Ling played stout rugger for the armies while Tyhurst and McGlore were best for McGill.

The lineups:
R.A.F.C. McGill
Read.....fullback Brewerton
Ling.....three quarter Ogilvie
Twiston.....three quarter Barkley
Bancroft.....three quarter McGlore
Craig.....stand-off Covo

Flax.....scrum Tyhurst (capt.)

Red Net Event Is Postponed

Finals to Be Held On Indoor Courts

Although the McGill Tennis tournament has advanced into the semi-final draws, it has been decided that due to the sudden departure of so many of the participants, the semi-final and final rounds will be postponed for the present. On the return of the harvesters the matches will be continued, probably on an indoor court.

Since this is the only sport which had got under way in a competitive sense, the rest of the sports program will go on as planned. The semi-final draw is not yet available, for probably some defaults were caused by the Western Incident in Friday's and Saturday's draws. These cases will have to be considered.

INDOOR COURT

Since the tennis season will be well advanced when the play is resumed, it is expected that an indoor court will be used. This may cause some major upsets in the expected results, for players with indoor experience will have a definite edge. Bob Watt, last year's champ, is at present in the Great West, although Richer, and Henne-man, two other seeded men are still here due to the pressure of their studies in Engineering and Medicine.

REASONING—25 CENTURIES AGO

A disciple by the name of Pzulu once asked what Confucius would consider the first thing to be done were he to administer a state.

The master answered: "What is necessary is to rectify names!"

"You are wide of the mark!" retorted the disciple, "Why must there be such rectification?"

Whereupon Confucius declared: "If names are not correct, language is not in accordance with the truth of things. If language is not in accordance with the truth of things, affairs cannot be carried on to success. When affairs cannot be carried on to success, ritual and music will not flourish. When ritual and music do not flourish, law and justice will not be proper. When law and justice are not proper, people will be at a loss even as to the movement of hands and feet."

The March of Sport

by Allan

Although in Montreal, football seems to have suffered more due to the war than other major sports, the question of how it should be played, with or without unlimited interference, is not only still with us, but is coming more into prominence. The High School teams, are strong exponents of the Americanized game, who occupy most of the Saturday afternoons at Molson Stadium, are enjoying considerable success; and in a time when the fate of the game will rest with the future, they, as the major players of the future, will be an important factor in deciding the rules to be used.

In this respect, however, their pioneering is not confined only to the interference rule, but has resulted in an attempt to remove some of the elements of luck from the game. Considerable changes have been made in the advantages a team can gain from an opponent's fumble. A fumble recovered over the opponent's goal line, which would formerly have counted for a touchdown, is now only worth two points, with the scoring team given the opportunity to convert for an extra point. Included in this category of "touchdown-from-fumble," is a blocked kick recovered over the goal line. In addition a player cannot run with the ball after recovering an opponent's fumble; that is, the ball is dead where he gains possession of it.

The penalty to a team for interfering with a potential pass-receiver, has been reduced to ten yards from the line of scrimmage, with a first down going to the passing team. If the ball was put in play inside the defenders ten-yard line, the ball is moved to the one-yard stripe, first down and goal to go.

The advantages of these rule changes to the Canadian game have yet to be shown decisively, and there is still much to be said pro and con. In yesterday's All-Star Civilian vs. Services game there was no opportunity for either team to do more than gain possession of the ball by recovering an opponent's fumble, without benefit of the aforementioned rule, and after having a blocked kick dribbled over their goal line, the Civvies were alert enough to keep the ball from falling into a Serviceman's clutches, turning a potential touchdown into a rouge. In this particular case thanks to excellent defensive playing the new rules would not have been necessary, but on the whole, the tendency to place more emphasis on the offense, limiting the chances to score by any other method than by advancing the ball from scrimmage is a progressive measure.

The unlimited interference does not necessarily revolutionize the game, but it is a valuable offensive weapon to be used in addition to the extension end run and the forward pass, the two best ground gainers in common use. It is a method of advancing the ball without taking the chance of losing it, if a pass goes astray. On Saturday afternoon, Catholic High School had the ball on the McGee twenty yard line, in a good position to score. Lining up in a "T"-formation, Joe Pett, in the tailback position, took the ball, and following the other four backfielders as interference, made his way to the seven yard line. This play, however, was called back because of an offside, but on the next play Joe Pett duplicated his play, and his team was in a position to plunge for a touchdown. In a similar situation yesterday, Doug Small elected to throw a forward pass, but it travelled right to Red Storey of the Civilian All Stars, and a valiant bid by the Service team was completely nullified.

The end run was used as a scoring play in another instance, with Red Storey snaring a lateral pass with one hand, running at full speed. This play means as much to the Canadian game as running interference does to the American game, and Buddy Atchison and Red Storey certainly bore out this fact yesterday afternoon. It would be a valuable asset to both styles of game.

Annual Track Meet to Feature Sports Program

Event to Be Held Despite Absence Of Harvesters

The Annual McGill Track Meet will be held at 2.30 Friday afternoon at Molson Stadium. This is one of the outstanding athletic events of the school year, and despite the fact that many of our would-be participants are now engaged in harvesting, the officials are planning for a big day.

Coach Van Wagner has been working on his stalwarts for the past few weeks, and now has all of the faithful in fighting trim. He is still looking for a larger group of competitors though, for the "harvest special" has borne many of the entries westward, and as yet there has not been sufficient new talent to replace those which have been withdrawn. It might be stated again, that the awarding of points should provide the incentive to entice some of the more reticent to active participation. Soon the companies will be organized and the Meet on Friday is the first opportunity for students to garner points for their respective groups. Entry forms have been posted in the locker room and the Gym, and it is hoped that the next few days will see the number of names grow.

LECTURES CANCELLED

The program will consist of fourteen events, and as lectures have been cancelled for the day, a large group of the student body should be in attendance in the stands. Coach Van Wagner is expecting to see some new records established at this meet, and bases most of his hopes on the freshman candidates. The following is a list of the times and distance, as established at last years meet:

120 yards Low Hurdles: 15.6 secs.
100 yards Dash: 10.5 secs.
220 yards Dash: 58.8 secs.
880 yards Run: 2 min. 15.2 secs.
1 mile Run: 5 min. 31.2 secs.
3 mile Run: 17 min. 24 secs.
Relay: 1 min. 18.7 secs.
Shot Put: 42 feet 11 inches.
Discus: 107 feet 11 inches.
Pole Vault: 10 feet 6 inches.
Broad Jump: 10 feet 10 inches.
Javelin: 136 feet 11.5 inches.
High Jump: 5 feet 7 1/4 inches.

Second Loop of Tourney Finishes This Afternoon

The Gods being willing, the second round of the Coed Tennis Tournament will draw to a close today at sundown. That is, those who have not played off their matches by tonight will be defaulted. The player in the lower bracket of the draw is the one responsible for arranging the match and will be the one dropped in case the contest is not played while her opponent will advance into the third round.

The past procedure by which the victor posted her name on the chart has been abandoned and instead written results will be handed in to Mrs. Lapointe—Secretary of the Physical Education Department. Due to the fact that yesterday was a holiday no news is forthcoming on any matches played over the week-end. Anyone desiring further information on the playing of these matches is requested to phone Barbara Campbell at WE. 5322.

Squash is the ideal indoor game for many reasons. It is easy to learn and is equally interesting for the novice or expert. Being a game of almost constant action, a half hour's play is usually sufficient. There is also the added advantage that the courts are available daily from 9.00 a.m. to 10.00 p.m.

For men who do not have their own equipment, a racket and ball may be rented from the locker room attendant for a nominal fee. A novice tournament will be held in the near future. By that time at least another hundred men should be playing squash.

TOUCH RUGBY

The Intercompany touch rugby league will start soon. Games will be played on the Lower campus this year at 5.15 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Fridays. A ball may be secured from the attendant at the tennis courts, and should be returned promptly so that it will be available for the next group.

TRACK

Track and Harrier practice is being held at the Stadium daily from 4 to 6 p.m. The Inter-Company Track Meet will be held on Sport Day, October 18th. Every man who has ever participated in any track events should turn out and prepare for the Inter-Company Meet. There are fourteen events and, as the first ten to finish in each event will score, a large team will be needed by each company.

Equipment may be secured from the Track Manager at the Field House between 4.30 and 5.30 p.m. daily.

SOFTBALL

We are going ahead with a Softball League between
Dents
Meds
Engineers
and any others who are still here. Later in the season or perhaps early next spring we will conduct an Indoor Inter-Company Softball League which will give everybody a chance to play.

Touch Rugby Rules

There are many types of touch rugby, but the same being used for Inter-Company competition is probably the simplest form. Running, forward passing and kicking are featured. The game can be learned in a few minutes by any one not already familiar with it. There is lots of action and each player has an equal chance to kick, pass and run.

No special clothing or equipment is necessary, either a gym suit or old clothes may be worn.

TOUCH RUGBY RULES.

1. A team consists of ten (10) men, but more or less may play if mutually agreed upon by the teams. Any number of substitutes may be used.

2. The game shall consist of two halves of 20 minutes each, with 5 minutes intermission between halves. One team shall have choice of ends and the other choice of kicking off or receiving. Teams shall change about for second half.

3. The ball shall be put into play by a place kick, drop kick or punt from the 40 yard line at the beginning of each half.

4. Scoring:

(a) Touchdown—5 points is scored when a team carries the ball across the opponents' goal line or completes a forward pass over the goal line.

(b) Field Goal—3 points is scored when a drop kick or place kick from the field goes over opponents' goal above the cross bar and between the posts.

(c) Rouge—1 point is scored when a kicked ball touches the ground behind an opponent's goal line or when an opponent in possession of the ball is tagged behind his goal line.

5. Except after a score, whenever the ball is declared dead, it shall be put in play by a free kick in the following manner: One member of team in possession shall put the ball in play by a punt, drop kick or place kick, all members of his team being inside until the ball has been kicked. The receiving team must remain at least ten (10) yards from the kicker. Penalty—5 yards.

6. The ball shall be kicked off by each member of a team in turn. Penalty—10 yards.

7. The ball is dead whenever a player in possession is tagged by an opponent, runs out of bounds, or drops the ball, also after an incomplete forward pass or when a kicked ball is not caught, or whenever the ball touches the ground.

8. When the ball is declared dead, it shall be put in play at that point by a free kick. After an incomplete forward pass, the ball shall be kicked again from point where pass was made.

9. When the ball is caught by a member of the receiving team he may run or pass in any direction, thus play continues until the ball is declared dead or score is made.

10. When the ball is carried or kicked over the side lines, it is put in play 15 yards in from the point where it crossed the line.

11. A fumble which touches the ground is dead.

12. A forward, backward or lateral pass may be thrown whenever a player is in legal possession of the ball and may be caught by any player on either team. If caught before touching the ground either before or after touching another player, the ball is in play.

13. Tackling, blocking, charging, holding or tripping are not allowed. Penalty—15 yards.

14. A player is tagged when he is touched with one hand between the shoulders and knees.

15. When a ball is declared dead, the receiving team may have 15 seconds to get into position for receiving kick.

16. Interference by either side is not allowed. Penalty—Ball is put in play at that point.

17. After a score, the team

Golfers to Meet Friday

Harvesting Not Expected to Shorten List

The Annual Intercompany Golf Tourney is to be held this coming Friday, October 16 at the Hampstead Fairway. The tournament is slated to get under way at 9 a.m., and the luncheon is to take place at 12.30. An entry fee of $1.25 is required, including the luncheon. The deadline for entries is October 14, in order to facilitate committee matters. However post entries will be accepted on the first tee. All prospective participants should sign on their respective faculty notice boards or in the Gymnasium, immediately. The tournament will be over a 36-hole course.

With the general exodus of McGillians to the Harvest putting a considerable drain on expert participants, the committee urges that a large group of younger men turn out, even though they are not expert shotmakers. Not only will this opportunity afford experience but also points for their companies.

Among the notables participating in this event are Bill MacDonald, last year's champion, also Young, Nicholson, Doscher and Milne. Doscher, Milne and Nicholson are well known in amateur and Junior Provincial competition. Thus this year's tourney should provide keen opposition and interest.

M.O.C. Stage Tour Sunday

Skiers Bushwack In the Far North

The McGill Outing Club commenced this year's activities by sending a group of students up North to excavate the country and to clear new trails for ski-lovers.

Every Sunday a tour is conducted for the hikers into the great beyond. This Sunday found the regions lying between Shawbridge and St. Marguerite's infested with the Reds. Actually this is an Engineer's undertaking but they have not the time for such trivialities.

The party disembarked at Mont Rolland Station and immediately trekked their way for Phillips Hill. The skiers rightly proved themselves pioneers by cutting a curvaceous trail leading to Ray's cottage. A snack lunch was had by all down by the shore of Lac Violon. The expedition continued soon after, winding its way through those magnificent and colossal Laurentian Hills and under a brilliant warm sun finally leading to the junction of the old St. Marguerite and Shawbridge trails.

At sunset a train of 15 weary but not dejected plodders silhouetted against a blue horizon, was seen marching toward the St. Marguerite Station. Their job completed. Then followed an enjoyable train scored upon put the ball in play as follows:—Following a touch or field goal, the ball shall be put in play from the 40 yard line; following a rouge from the 20 yard line.

The notice board on the East wall of the R.V.C. main entrance, directly opposite the switchboard, will be used for War Service notices for the present. All times and places and class lists will be posted there for reference. The only exceptions are the Physical Education and Red Cross Corps announcements which will remain as before on the board outside the R.V.C. Physical Education Dept. offices.

Students are responsible for reading what is posted on these boards. When possible, additional publicity is given through the courtesy of the Daily, but in case of doubt, it is the notice board information that is to be regarded as official.

The following War Service classes will begin this week:

1) All Physical Training classes, at the hours posted.
2) Signalling and Telegraphy. Tuesday, 8-10 and Wednesday 4-6. All students who registered for this should report at the R.V.C. main hall at those hours for further directions. An aptitude test will be given this week, so it is essential for all those registered to appear.

3) Red Cross Corps. Wednesday 8-9 P.M. Parade at 7 p.m. Report at Upper Gymnasium, R.V.C. Cadets should wear uniform for the Parade. Further notice will be published tomorrow.

4) Typing and Shorthand. Students who signed for this should start their classes this week at the School of their choice. They are also responsible for telling Mrs. Tyrrell the details of their arrangement, either through a written note or in her office hours, 9-10 p.m. and 2:30-3:15 daily this week.

5) Service and Field Work. (For fourth year students who have been passed by the War Service and Women's Union Committees). Lists of the students who are eligible will be posted by noon today, Tuesday, on the War Service Board. Also the Women's Union committee has already reached many by telephone. Those whose names do not appear or who have not been phoned should see Mrs. Tyrrell today. This is urgent.

It has been decided that those students who are conditioned in any subject are not eligible for Field Work. They should therefore report to Mrs. Tyrrell in office hours, (see 4 above) to register in regular classes.

6) Office Practice. Students who signed up for office work in connection with the War Service Programme should see Mrs. Tyrrell in office hours (9-10 a.m. and 2:30-3:15 p.m. daily this week) to arrange their hours of work.

NOTICE: Classes in A.R.P. (the First Year Requirement), Home Nursing, Child Care, and St. John Ambulance Instructor, will begin next week. Further notices will be posted. Watch the Notice Board. War Service Committee for Women

It will consist of a certain number of lectures and a great deal of practical work in such subjects as Map Reading, Drill, Weapon Training, Fieldcraft, Battle Drill, Section Leading and Trenching.

This group will be known as B-1 wing.

Those who trained with the M.R.T.B. during the academic year 1941-2 will cover the second four weeks of the Standard Syllabus, and will be known as B-2 wing.

high school leagues. He is big, fast, clever, and is a triple-threat man. Apparently he was a good pupil of his old coach, Orville Burke, for, like Burke, he can shoot a lovely pass. His quick anticipation and smooth delivery suggest something that we last saw in the great Bummer Stirling. Quinn did most of the punting as well, and ran the ball well enough to slip over standing up for one of the touchdowns, using Tommy Daley as a decoy on a cutback from an end run.

We could go on and talk about the snappy intermission show put on by the Central R.C.A.F. Band, but space is limited. This musical and trick marching display was a gem. The trouble is that we tend never to glorify our Canadian talent enough. No commands were given. The boys simply proceeded to block out wheels with spokes revolving in the opposite direction, V for Victory formations, and finally the letters R.C.A.F., playing snappy march music all the while, and perpetually on the move. The precision was letter perfect. The whole display was a credit to the R.C.A.F.

In the middle of the p.m., several crates of apples were passed around, as the contribution of R.V.C. to the expedition. Much appreciation was expressed for this gift, and when it was rumored that sandwiches would be produced in the evening, regard for the co-eds reached new high.

While on this subject, it might be added that public opinion throughout the train is much in favour of a Harvest Ball, to be held upon the return of the agriculturalists in three weeks. Although it is understood that few plans can be developed from the widely scattered farms of Sask., it is genuine hope that preparations might be made for such an event. The harvesters have expressed a keen desire to make a public appearance before the city slicker set of the Medical Faculty, and the Peel-Street personnel of the PLUMBING DEPARTMENT. It is understood, of course, that they be allowed to appear in the hinterlandish regalia and three weeks growth of beard of true frontiersmen.

age of tenors, but all parts are needed.

All students interested are invited by the executive to turn out for practices. These practices will be held every Thursday afternoon from 5:00 to 6:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. This time has been chosen to interfere as little as possible with the many other demands made upon the time of students.

Among the works to be presented this year are Haydn's "Imperial Mass" and "Toward the Unknown Region" by Von Williams. The Society hopes to give its first concert early in the new year, probably about the first week of February.

Prof. McCurdy's Death Mourned

sity in 1921, and in 1926 returned to McGill's Faculty of Engineering as a lecturer in the Department of Mechanical Engineering. At the time of his death he was an assistant professor in the same department.

Professor McCurdy is survived by his wife, the former Sophie Cram, whom he married in July of 1938, and also by their young daughter, Catherine, aged two.

His passing will be felt keenly by the students of the Faculty of Engineering, and will leave a gap very difficult to fill. The funeral services were conducted on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at D. A. Collins' Chapel. Interment is to take place in his home town, New Glasgow, Nova Scotia.

SOPHISTIC DEFINITIONS FOR THE USE OF PROFESSORS, STUDENTS AND THE WORKING CLASSES

1. Success in university life is ensured if your wallet bulges and you don't.

The secret lies in making contacts by taking the right courses with the right people. Alphabetical seating has been a great boon in this respect. For instance, it is, thanks to this fine system, that we read that Miss Annie Up, daughter of Old Man Up, the czar of the sardine can combine, has married Mr. James Uggie, son of Old Man Uggie, a bum, if ever there was one. This is the redistribution of wealth in its ugliest form, and should inspire every ambitious young undergraduate.

2. The freshman is an overdressed mass of quivering ignorance. The only way to get anything into his head is by way of his mouth which will take everything.

3. The sophomore is a freshman who has lit his pipe, and wishes he hadn't.

4. The junior: someone who thinks he can go to the Prom without paying.

5. The senior: someone who knows he can't.

6. A fraternity: a group of men intent on doing nothing in a sophisticated manner.

7. A sorority: a group of women intent on doing a fraternity.

8. Campus clubs: offer every student the opportunity to become a big frog in a little pond. The various big frogs get together from time to time to croak at one another and eat ham sandwiches.

The popularity of a student can be reckoned in direct proportion to the number of ham sandwiches consumed during the term, which may account for the onking sound in the direction of many of our glamour girls.

9. The university is the best place to learn that woman is the more social and the less sociable animal.

10. Examinations mark the point where remembering ends and forgetting begins.

11. They are condemned by students and faculties alike. The only explanation for their persistence seems to be that the university has a contract with a man named Sniffle, who supplies the blotters for the examination rooms.

They may, however, be considered an indirect incentive to spiritual rearmament. For instance, last year the V.C.U. hung out a sign that went something like this:

"During examination week, morning worship will be held daily in Arts 204, from 8:00-8:30 a.m."

I know one chap who clutched at this straw, beelining up to Arts 204 one morning to put everything on the black. He entered the exam room at 9 with a divine look on his face. He left the exam room at 9:30 with a look on his face that would have made Frankenstein jump for a chandelier.

He smashed into Arts 204, and started tearing up the seats, yelling: "And they said God knew the Law of Cosines!"

11. The sciemenceman: the cauliflower of modern education.

The sciemenceman is an insufficiently suppressed Lauritz Melchior, whose mind travels in only one direction and in the gutter every inch of the way.

He spends his working hours playing around with figures.

"I can't improve on that for his leisure hours, either."

You show me a "civil" engineer, and I'll show you an umbrella with wet feet, a Swedish accent, and a brother who sings "Danny Boy."

Sciemencemen wear red sweaters simply to stiffen their morale and give the illusion of health.

Actually, sciemencemen are so anaemic their red corpuscles have to be amphibious in order to make the portage over the dry gulches in the blood stream. One sciemenceman ran on two corpuscles for years before they realized that they were chasing one another around and through the veins and arteries all by themselves. Whereupon they joined the C.I.O., and held a sit-down strike in the left ventricle, killing the sciemenceman almost immediately.

12. The aggie: someone who can study the anatomy of a chicken without fear of being caught at it.

13. The artsman: someone who is neither a sciemenceman nor an aggie, and is proud of it.

senior year. (Good Gawd! I used to write a man's column, but since the war there ain't enough men left to read it, so I'm reduced to the position of attempting to emulate Ida Jean Kain—next week I'll include a couple of old recipes from the Toole Yodler to make you feel at home.)

But to illustrate my point, little Janie, as a freshman, dashes home a note something like this:

"Dear Mum: At last I'm in the university, and it's the most wonderful place ever, with thousands of the most beautiful men all over the place. Last week I went out to the club with a Sigma Chi. Thursday I went to the Hotel with a Phi Delta boy, and yesterday I met the grandest Beta. His name is Bill, isn't that suave? and he's coming for me tonight. I can tell he's just wild for me. As ever, Janie."

Four years later she writes as follows:

"Dear Mother: Well I'm settled for another year, and it's already horribly dull. I've never seen anyone so insipid as these young freshmen girls, and the boys are just making fools out of themselves over them. However, I am studying hard and I think I can make a 2.5 average this quarter. My professors are beginning to recognize me on the campus now, and I think I may have a chance for Mor
